

The East Greenwich Pendulum

Editor: Jonathan Gibbs • 884-4662
jgibbs@ricentral.com • www.ricentral.com

Serving East Greenwich, Cowesett and Potowomut Since 1854

June 22, 2006

EG students help young patients

Last week, students at East Greenwich High School presented Hasbro Children's Hospital with more than 100 books and dolls for young patients. The goods were donated as part of the proceeds raised through a read-athon the high school students conducted with the help of nearly 700 students at the Meadowbrook Farms and Frenchtown elementary schools. Children at the elementary schools also raised money for the "The Jester and Pharley Phund," which helps purchase copies of David Saltzman books as well as dolls of their characters for children at Hasbro with terminal illnesses. Shown here are EGHS student Ali Beretta (front, left), Hasbro Children's Hospital Child Life Manager Marianne Cooney, student Eliza Stopa; EGHS teacher Christopher Boei (rear, left) and students David Beretta, Alex Schaller and John Passa.